KENYON DEFEATS BOLE'S OUTFIT

Takes Wooster Across To 3-0 Tune; Playing Best Of Season

Kenyon did it, Beat Wooster 3-0. Practically every team in Ohio has failed in this and it was up to Kenyon to administer Wooster's first defeat since 1916. There was no fluke, no break of luck in the victory. The local prides battled the visitors during the entire game and the losers had no alibi to offer.

With Stock's kick-off every man was on the job and in there fighting. Wooster lost the ball on a fumble on their first play. Hohlfelder recovered and Kenyon brought the crowd to a frenzy of excitement by rushing the ball to Wooster's ten yard line. They lost the ball on downs but threw a tremendous scare into the enemy's team.

After several exchanges of punts, with Stock gaining on every kick, Wooster took the ball and started a march down the field. A versatile attack, combining end runs with nice off tackle plunges, made it look as though the Wooster's machine was going to hang up another victory. With their backs to the wall by sheer fighting, the Kenyon men stopped the advance and Wooster's chance was gone.

That was all our fellows needed. They had discovered that they could stop Wooster and also could penetrate her defense. With that, Kenyon began a little march of her own. This was halted only when the ball was on the opponents' fifteen yard line. Hohlfelder promptly dropped back to the twenty-five yard line and booted a goal from placement that decided the game. The Episcopalians thereafter held gamely and the out-of-town boys were helpless. The half ended: Kenyon 3, Wooster 0.

With the start of the second half, the rooters on the sidelines were almost hysterical. Could Kenyon keep it up? The answer was most emphatically yes. The team not only held but played Wooster off its feet. The ball was in Wooster's territory four-fifths of the time. With defeat staring them in the face for the first time, the visitors became desperate and resorted to every means of scoring. It was useless. Kenyon had the taste of victory and were irresistible. Wooster's backs were stopped short; her trick plays upset; her passes broken up and she was driven back by Stock's punts. When the final whistle blew, a sorrowful bunch of men took the road to Wooster and the Kenyonites were crazed with excitement. Once again

FATHER FIDELIS, C. P., DIES IN MONASTERY

He Was James Kent Stone, Former Head of Kenyon and Hobart
Colleges

Father Fidelis, C. P. (James Kent Stone), Harvard graduate, former President of Kenyon College and also of Hobart, descendant of a distinguished Puritan family and for more than forty years an outstanding figure in the Roman Church, died recently at the Passionist Monastery in Chicago.

Father Fidelis was in his seventy-seventh year. He retired from the Episcopal ministry and entered the Roman Church in 1869. He preached at missions in all parts of North America. He held many offices in the order, including that of Provincial and eventually that of Councillor to the Father General.

Father Fidelis was married shortly after his graduation from Harvard. His wife, who was Cornelia Fay of Boston, died, leaving two daughters, who are living. His father was the Rev. Dr. John S. Stone, dean of the Theological Seminary Cambridge and later, founder of the Episcopal Seminary in Philadelphia. He was buried in Chicago.

The annual Founder's Day Service was held in the Church of the Holy Spirit on All Saint's Day. The Founder's Memorial was read by the Chaplain of the College, the Reverend Horace Wyndome Wood, and the Holy Eucharist was celebrated by the Bishop-Coadjutor of Ohio. The entire faculty was present as well as the student body of the College and Harcourt Place School.

the men from Gambier had pulled the unexpected and the state champions had suffered the worst blow in years.

VARSITY TIES CASEY'S MOUNT UNION ELEVEN

Wrangling Union Backfield Loses Game For Puritans; Locals In Defensive Game Throughout

In a game characterized by many fumbles and penalties, Keyon held Mount Union to a scoreless tie.

Mount Union won the toss and Stock kicked off to their 10 yard line, by a series of line plunges they worked the ball down to Kenyon's 20 yard line but lost the ball on a fumble. The ball stayed in the middle of the field for the remainder of this period.

The second quarter was featured by many exchanges of punts in which Kenyon always outpunted Union, but what they lost in punts they made up for in line plunges and end runs. Kenyon advanced the ball to their 20 yard line in this period, but lost the ball on downs.

Between halves the Kenyon rooters, about 200 in number, showed the Mount Union supporters what real spirit is and what a real snake dance is; in fact the Kenyonites out-cheered and sang the thousand students of the Alliance school thruout the whole game.

In the second half, by means of a forward pass and a run of 50 yards, Mount Union was able to place the ball on Kenyon's six yard line, but here the defenders' fight came back and they were unable to put the ball over. Small punted the ball out of danger, but, by many line plunges, Union again threatened the Mauve's goal lines. Harris caught a pass from Thompson and crossed the goal line, but upon being tackled he fumbled the ball and McIlwain fell upon it. It was declared a touchback and the ball was taken to the 20 yard line and again put in play. In the remaining few minutes of play Union backs were unable to gain and the game ended with the ball in midfield.

The game was featured by the punting of Small, by Stocks line plunging, and by Chew's and Mellwains consistent playing in the line. Thompson and Weiger starred for Mount Union. Following is the line up and summary:

TRACK TEAM GOES IN TRAINING; NEW MATERIAL APPEARS

Period of Inactivity Follows Night Of Intensive Training

A crack Freshman and future Varsity backfield is not the only thing that has been developed at Kenyon within the past two months. In fact, within the last two weeks, an overabundance of meteoric trackmen has come to light in the following men: Hamilton, Beckler, Bell and Boyd, with Graves and Irwin running close seconds. All it takes is the crack of a pistol to start them, and coupled with the yells from the sidelines (?) nothing can stop them. At least they tried their hardest not to stop on the night of November 1st.

It is said that Hamilton, the first one to be decoyed in the "contest" made East Division in "awfully good time," while Beckler in his turn did the 220 high hurdles over a 200 foot culvert in nothing flat. Tinkle Bell was progressing admirably down the gravel path when some one stepped from behind a tree and shot. He says he doesn't remember much after that, but witnesses claim his feet went much higher than his head, and his head was in the air quite high. It was at this point that the argument between the gun-toter and Tinkle started, in which Bell denied any and all knowledge of the affair.

Boyd, it is said, took a corner at right angles, and after being refused admittance to a house wherein he expected protection, ran back to his Wing, and has been sick ever since. The most peculiar part of it all, though, is the fact that all of them were in bed when invited to go on the party, and most of them shaved, powdered and got all dolled up, only to see how fast they could run.

Dr. Lockert's Freshmen team trampled on the varsity 20 to 7 here last Tuesday. The score does not indicate the comparative strength of the two teams, for the Freshmen were almost always well up into the Varsity's territory while their own territory was never threatened except in the second quarter when Hohlfelder intercepted a pass and ran 70 yards for a touchdown.

It is hard to pick any stars for the freshman team as all played excellent football. Possibly the work of Hovorka and Madden featured the line play for them, while Rybak, Daley and Harris were the most consistent ground gainers.

In the first quarter Harris kicked off to Goodell who received on the two yard line. The Varsity was unable to gain and were forced to kick. The punt struck Alexander on the shoulder and Brown recovered for the Varsity. They were soon forced to punt again but the freshman offense was ragged and uncertain and Alexander punted off side on the Varsity 40 yard line. Here the quarter ended.

It was early in the second quarter that Hohlfelder pulled his spectacular run. He then kicked goal giving the Varsity a 7 point lead. Hohlfelder kicked off over the freshman goal line, the ball then being put in play on their 20 yard line. The freshmen had trouble gaining but managed to make two first downs. Then Harris on eleven consecutive bucks carried the ball from his own 40 yard line to the Varsity 2 yard line. The Varsity regular line was put in as the freshmen neared the Varsity goal but Whipple was shot around end for the remaining two yards and a touchdown. Harris kicked goal, tying the score.

In the third quarter the freshmen began to find themselves and marched down the field for a touchdown; the kick missed goal. Soon afterwards Goodell fumbled one of Rybak's punts and Hovorka recovered the ball for the freshmen. Rybak shot a pass to Daley who made a fine catch, injuring his shoulder while doing it. All that kept the freshmen from another touchdown was a fumble by Harris which gave the Varsity the ball. There was no more scoring in this period.

Early in the last period Rybak aided by some pretty interference broke loose on an end run, and eluding Cagwin and Goodell, ran 40 yards for a touchdown. Harris kicked goal. With only two minutes to play the freshmen started their best offense of the game. With Harris hitting the line on a delayed buck and Rybak shooting off the ends they carried the ball on seven downs from their own 20 yard line to the Varsity 4 yard line, when the whistle blew.

In a game which was altogether an exhibition of poor football, Otterbein held Kenyon to a 7-7 tie, on Oct. 29th. The date of the game was that set aside for Otterbein's Homecoming Day, and accordingly a comparatively large crowd witnessed the game.

The Westerville eleven got away to any early start, scoring a touchdown in the first five minutes of play, but in the third quarter George of Otterbein fumbled Small's sixty yard punt and the ball was recovered by Maxwell on the five yard line. On the next play, Olson carried the pigskin across, making the tally which tied the score. The remainder of the game resolved itself into an uninteresting punting exhibition.

Sommerville, with his running back of punts and his crafty field generalship showed up well, while Peden of Otterbein with his spectacular ground-gaining, also featured.

QUICK SERVICE AND SATISFACTION

1923 REVEILLE WILL BE "KNOCKOUT" FROM PRESENT INDICATIONS

Augmentation Of Book Necessitated By Huge College Roster

Kenyon alumni will be pleased to learn of the progress that the staff of "The 1923 Reveille" is making; even at this early date, much gratifying information is accessible.

According to indications, the sudden increase in the college roster necessitates a corresponding augmentation of the annual publication of the Junior Class. Along with this enlarging comes news of several changes that those who closely follow Kenyon life will welcome.

There is to be especial attention given to the athletic features of the book, this being due to the huge success of Kenyon's teams of the year.

New pictures, fewer advertisements, more interesting information concerning the year's activities, and a complete revision of the matter contained in the book will be a few of the features of this year's publication.

The photographers are giving the "Reveille" special attention; the board will have most of its copy in the engraver's hands by the first of the year. This will insure ample time to turn out good plates, and the finished book will not be marred by the usual pictures that show marked signs of hurried engraving. One of the best printers in the state is to do the work; the choice of printers was made after comparing the work of several of the more prominent specialists in college work.

The contract for binding has not yet been let, but it is probable that this phase will be entrusted to an Ohio firm which the board now has in mind. This is one of the most difficult processes in the mechanical side of the assembling; samples of covers are already in the proper hands, and choice will be made shortly.

Alumni are guaranteed a highly satisfactory book this year; those in charge of the book have been working all summer and fall to insure its success, and have every reason to believe that the finished product will command the approval and commendation of every loyal Kenyon man.

The Sophomores have been taken down a peg or two by the Senior Council. The Freshmen broke Rosse Hall chairs over the heads and other tender parts of '24's anatomy, and then it was thought that the proceeds from cane rush fees and chapel tickets would recompense the injured. But alack and alas, the Sophomores will have to resort to more legitimate forms of enterprise. Fifty six berries worth of furniture is not to be snickered at.

SPORTSMANSHIP

We are in receipt of an account of the recent Kenyon-Otterbein football game, as narrated by the literary acrobat who chronicles home games for the Otterbein college paper. Truly, Mr. Otterbein Editor, you have a very entertaining staff of embryo journalists as your associates in misinformation.

Here we quote offense number one, verbatim: "The same old Kenyon style of playing and use of unsportsmanlike tactics was very much in evidence." This little excerpt reminds us very much of the little chant which insists that "we hate like hell to doubt your word, but that stuff won't go here!" If there is anything to which Kenyon men are pleased to point with pride, it is the way in which Ohio college papers report courtesy and hospitality extended to teams visiting the Hill.

This comment is highly appreciated, especially when we remember that Kenyon tradition has featured courtesy and manliness since 1824. We challenge any college to report any libelous yarn such as appeared in the recent issue of Otterbein's news sheet.

It is difficult to convince collegiate Pulitzers that printer's type is not made out of rubber; a compositor can squeeze but forty-four letters into one line of type. So here let us suggest, Mr. Otterbein Editor, that "unsportsmanlike" is a pretty long word; "unsportsmanlike" used once, will crowd out of the line anything else that you wish to say. This one word will stick out like a sore thumb, whether it be in the "Siwash Bleat" or the "Otterbein Vermillion." So please Mr. Editor, watch your vocabulary hereafter.

Offense number two: A little knowledge is a bad thing; in fact, we are so afraid that our ignorance of the personnel of opposing teams will cause misunderstanding, that when local reporters cover home games they do not follow said games play by play. When we put in a man's name we are certain that what we say about him is correct; we refer you to paragraph three of the story in question. As a matter of fact, Small did the punting, and did a poor job at that; in this instance the truth doesn't hurt anybody but our recent opponents.

Technically, a fumble is the accidental dropping of the ball. When Otterbein fumbled in the third period it was their own hard luck; when Kenyon fumbles and loses she does not rub her belt and complain of an attack of the "horseshoes." The ball has been accidentally dropped, and that's the end of it.

Likewise, we suggest that future Kenyon-Otterbein tilts be staged on High Street, Columbus; surely the asphalt will be better suited to flying tackles than the prairie at Westerville, whose constituency reminds us of porcelain.

And again; Persons who refereed football back in the Stone Age, or Diaper period, have no place in Ohio Conference games. We are surprised that we had with us one who survives Methuselah (we're not much on Biblical spelling).

We regret that we are forced to call this unpleasant write-up to your attention, Mr. Otterbein Editor: let us hope that there is not a recurrence of this sort of thing. And here let us add you can bet your last quart that we will bow and smile, and raise our hats, and tender a smoker, when Otterbein's quintet comes up to take a basketball scalp away from the Kenyon ruffians, from Kenyon's bold bad men, that said visiting team will recall the chronicle in question, much to their mortification.

MATRICULATION

For many years Kenyon College has held matriculation examinations for the new men; and for many years these said "eliminations" have been received without the slightest bit of anxiety by Kenyon men.

But it is high time that someone said something about this year's series of examinations, and what they will mean this season. It is evident to the older men that there should be an immediate reversal of attitude toward these exams; here let us point out to the new men the consequences of failure or poor work during the week immediately preceding the approaching Thanksgiving season.

The crowded condition of the college needs not be called to our attention; but the older Kenyonites have every reason to believe that this year the gala season wherein we carve the turkey will see many men, especially freshmen, dropped from college. Not because they are not wanted, but because the poorer students must make room for men who know why they are here, and what this college aims to do.

Kenyon college is a sort of business, whose student managers are forced to compete with each other for the good will of their respective teacher-customers. And it will very naturally follow that this training will be manifest in later life,—the men who worked a little harder than the other fellow in college, will be the men we shall some day read about in Forbes or some other contemporary dictionary of national biography.

Hence, freshmen, it behooves you to let out a few notches these next few weeks, for Thanksgiving will see you either eating Turkey with much gusto, or partaking of the bones of the said fowl off of your paternal mantle.

GROW UP!

Here at Kenyon we are pleased to be called men, and to be used accordingly; We are so used. It is therefore rather unpleasant to have to direct a few words at certain students who are behaving as naughty school children in the classrooms, and are treating the professors as anything but the gentlemen and sportsmen that they are.

Some of these gentlemen prefer not to waste time disciplining their classes, or cutting the men for disorder, and in view of this fact, in the larger classes there is so much talking aloud, laughter, rattling of chairs, and throwing of perfectly good text-books, that neither the instructor nor the conscientious element have the slightest idea what the lecture or recitation is about.

The semester is well under way now, and it is high time that these childish antics stop. Kenyon is a place for men and gentlemen.

MANY KENYONITES RIDE THE BLINDS TO ALLIANCE TILT

Collegiate Knights Of The Road Fill Kenyon Bleachers At Mt. Union

Time out, sport writers and give a little credit to the Student Body, of which some fifty or more "bummed" their way to Alliance, for the Mt. Union game, October 22nd.

Traveling by twos and threes, the gang started out at all hours on Friday. Some headed for the R. R. tracks, others for the main highway, with one object in view: "To see the team play at Alliance!" Luck favored the majority, though several of the pilgrims had a merry chase with railroad detectives at their heels, when they attempted to hop a freight at Mt. Vernon.

About fifteen men climbed aboard the 7:02 train, which carried the team; of that number, two are known to have arrived "right side up with care" for the train stopped about a mile out of Gambier, and the train crew chased the students off of the blinds. The conductor explained that there were too many riding to be safe, and that he would have been held responsible in case of an accident.

Several of the early birds were on the spot to greet the eleven as they pulled into Alliance; some even stayed all night at the hotel with the team,—three in a bed. We have learned since that others were hitting the trail, hooking auto rides or riding freights; some waited for the morning train, and did not arrive until later.

Saturday morning, the Lexington Hotel looked more or less like headquarters for the Hoboes' Convention, as the dirty, dusty, foot-sore, sleepy students straggled in to receive the felicitations of the more fortunate men. Space forbids mentioning of names, though some of the hardships the men experienced, in order to follow the team, show what stuff Kenyon under-graduates possess. It was a somewhat different bunch that sprang into life with cheers and songs at the game.

One cannot get past the fact that our cheering section was a great factor in the game. It is this sort of support that the team needs every time, and it is up to the stout-hearted bums, who received their baptism of fire while enroute to Alliance to attend the rest of the games in spite of hardships and inconveniences they must suffer. Don't miss the next trip,—someone is going who will be glad to show you "the ropes."

The Reverend Donald Wonders, '13, Bexley '16, now has charge of St. Paul's Parish in Mt. Vernon. He comes to "Vernon" from Newark, New Jersey.

"DANTE" SUBJECT OF FIRST LARWILL TALK

Powys First Larwill Lecturer Of Year; Takes Rap at Academic Observance of Poet's Death

Once again, on Thursday, November fourth, the Hill was graced with the presence of Mr. John Cooper Powys in a rather hurried lecture on Dante.

Mr. Powys introduced his subject with regrets for the deplorable spirit displayed at the six hundredth anniversary of Dante's death. He asserted that the poet had not been honored as he deserved, that all the celebrations were academic or in the manner of a public school exercise, and that where ever collegiate celebrations had been held, intellectual snobbishness was connected with them. Herein, he explained, lies the fault, for we do not understand Dante well enough to honor him rightfully. That one must be born to appreciate Dante is the view of Mr. Powys, and if such is not the case Dante should be entirely left alone. He is only understood when one has a portion of his own spirit imbedded in oneself—to love and hate violently. Civilization and culture are the factors which govern our appreciation for the poet; the latter far more so than the first, for culture is a part of one's nature inbred in the blood and bones, whereas civilization is but the state of being refined in manners and improved in arts and letters. It is in the last, despite the definition, that we display our lack of love for books, and if we have no real love for books why be hypocritical—we might just as well display love for pigs.

The speaker first mentioned the article by Maurice Conn in "The New Republic." He attested that the writer, whom incidentally he did not believe to be an Italian, vaguely proclaimed Dante as immoral, unphilosophical, and uncollegiate; that Dante was old fashioned, out of court and was mediaeval in his love for Beatrice. But Benedito Croche—we are reminded that he is an Italian—writing in the last "Yale Review" pronounces Dante as insipid and amounting to nothing. However, in the last line he acclaims Dante a genius.

Nevertheless, according to Arthur Brisbane of the San Francisco Examiner, one of the few with whom Mr. Powys is in agreement, Dante has done more for womanhood than any other great poet. The object of the college associates, the lecturer claimed, was to reduce the personality of the poet, for the personality of Dante is the Vita Nuova.

Here Mr. Powys paused to make a threefold appeal to the young students who were interested in Dante. He begged them, first, to cut out all poetical translations and second, to get a prose translation. Then, third, to get the text without notes and to read it by comparing the two books. Do not set about the study as a regular exercise—read for pleasure, and skip through the text without any scruples. Mr. Powys conceded the fact that the individual taste varied greatly and that we all would find passages which would appeal to us more than others would; but if we found we had a mania for the Inferno to remain there—do not go into Paradise. He added that no interpretation of Dante should be read, for they were all second-rate and nothing suited a second-rate mind better than an interpretation.

NOVEMBER ASSEMBLY IS WELL ATTENDED; SANT DOES THE TALKING

Dormitory Committee Promises Prompt Suppression Of Foolishness

The regular monthly meeting of the Assembly was called to order on the evening of November 7, by President Wiseman. The roll was called and the minutes of both the special assembly held Oct. 18, and the previous regular assembly were approved as read.

Dr. Allen was introduced and gave a short address on the purpose and effects of Armistice Day and outlined the program of exercises to be held on the campus at that time.

Mr. Armstrong of the Pennsylvania railroad gave the assembly facts regarding the relative cost per man of chartering a special train to carry the student body to Cleveland to see the Case game. But as the cost depended upon the number of students going and a standing count revealed only sixty, the idea was abandoned. The matter of providing a special car on the regular train was, however, placed in the hands of Mr. Brain.

The report of the Executive Committee was read by Mr. Goodell and approved as read.

Mr. Maxwell announced the decision of the Senior Council, that Mr. Wasser might act in the capacity both of track manager and of business manager of The Collegian. He then read the powers and purposes of the Senior Council, following which he reminded the assembly of the conditions surrounding the singing at the Commons. A motion was then made by Mr. Maxwell that no man may hold two athletic managerships during the same year. Since such a motion must come in the form of a constitutional amendment, it was laid on the table until the next assembly.

Mr. Crawford was elected to the Senior Council to fill the vacancy in the 7th constitutional division.

Mr. Maxwell spoke on the revision and standardization of the varsity insignia. This idea was put in the form of a motion to amend the constitution and was laid on the table until the next Assembly.

Mr. Sant addressed the assembly on the use of liquor among the men of Kenyon. His remarks, though all too brief, were well-chosen and to the point and his words will undoubtedly have their intended effect. Mr. Wiseman gave this talk a hearty second and reminded all that they must get behind the dormitory committee in the matter and sketched the perils of its non-support. Furthermore he took the opportunity to announce the date of the annual Varsity-Freshman football game.

Mr. Barton spoke of vandalism in the library and asked the students to be careful of the mutilation and destruction of the books contained therein.

LITTLE BUSINESS ATTENDS SPECIAL ASSEMBLY SESSION

Rejection Of Private Car Proposal Chief Topic Of Evening

A special assembly, called to discuss ways and means of having the largest student attendance at the Mt. Union game, was brought to order at 7:30 October 18, by President Wiseman. After the usual roll-call and reading of the previous minutes had been disposed of, Mr. Wiseman spoke at some length on the desirability of the attendance of all men who could see their way clear to go to the game at Alliance. A vote was taken to ascertain the number in favor of engaging a special car; the number being inadequate no action was taken.

Mr. Brown, representing the Dormitory Committee, spoke briefly but to the point, concerning the activity of the present committee; he urged all possible conservation of the electric current used for lighting purposes. He furthermore presented an amendment to the present Dormitory Rules regarding the entertaining of women guests in the dormitories. The new ruling provides that no women other than relatives of men in college or married women shall be allowed unchaperoned in the dormitories after six o'clock in the evening. The penalty for violation of this rule to be administered as the dormitory committee sees fit.

Mr. Nall moved that Mr. Wasser be allowed to retain the managership both of the track team and the business affairs of The Collegian. Mr. Perrin objected to the motion, declaring such action unconstitutional; after some discussion, the matter was placed in the hand of the Senior council for final disposition.

BASKETBALL PROSPECTS

Immediately after Thanksgiving, Coach Smith will issue a call for basketball candidates, and we hope and expect to put a quintet on the floor which will equal if not surpass the fine record of the present football eleven. For the past three years the team has been composed of mediocre players, and handicapped at all time by injuries, ineligibilities, and the withholding of parental consent. Now all these factors have been practically overcome, and with the 1921 team almost intact as well as that of 1924, prospects have never seemed more favorable for a highly successful season.

SENIOR FALL DANCE "SOME PARTY" STATE THOSE ATTENDING

Good Music And Decorations Are Big Features Of Last Affair

In giving an account of the dances at Kenyon from time to time, it is almost tradition to call each one "the best ever," but literally, and in all sincerity, this phrase is the only one that properly describes the Senior Fall Dance, the week-end beginning October the twenty-eighth.

The outstanding feature of the parties was the music of the Keystone Six, of Ellwood, Pa. Aside from being the best music for dancing that has come to the Hill for several seasons, this was the first against which a conversation could successfully compete. During the reign of "Jazz," the chaperones could not hope to enjoy a party on account of the excessive noise.

The decorations and appointments in Rosse Hall were novel and of the very best, and the planning and execution of them is credited to Mr. Perrin and Mr. Nall.

The fact that the attendance was very small, especially on the first night, only improved the party and made it more intimate and comfortable. But this condition is distinctly a luxury, and rather hard on the purse of the Senior Class. There is no reason why the men, who heretofore would not believe what they heard about Kenyon dances, should not plan at once to attend the next one and get into the swing of things here.

As at the last two or three affairs of this kind, the dancing continued all night until six; and was resumed with as much enthusiasm at nine o'clock in the evening, under the guiding influence of the same harmony makers.

Sincerest congratulations are due the Seniors for the success of this typical Kenyon party; and may more new men get in on the next one! A partial guest list follows:

SCIENCE CLUB GETS UNDER WAY; NEW MEN ADMITTED TO OUTFIT

Eighteen Juniors Are Signed Up Under Revised Elegi- bility Requirements

When the Science Club convened for the first time this fall, its members decided to raise the entrance requirements to twenty hours of science, including Mathematics 1 and 2, instead of twelve, as heretofore. Hence many of the applicants were advised to withhold their petitions until the end of the semester when they would be reconsidered. Of the many who applied fifteen upperclassmen were admitted to membership.

The object of the club is to promote interest in science for those majoring in it. Meetings are held twice a month; at each one several papers on some phase of science is read by the members and afterwards is discussed in general.

Why Is Iron Magnetic?

A horse-shoe magnet attracts a steel needle. But why? We don't know exactly. We do know that electricity and magnetism are related.

In dynamos and motors we apply electro-magnetic effects. All our power-stations, lighting systems, electric traction and motor drives, even the ignition systems of our automobiles, depend upon these magnetic effects which we use and do not understand.

Perhaps if we understood them we could utilize them much more efficiently. Perhaps we could discover combinations of metals more magnetic than iron.

The Research Laboratories of the General Electric Company investigate magnetism by trying to find out more about electrons and their arrangement in atoms.

X-rays have shown that each iron atom consists of electrons grouped around a central nucleus—like planets around an infinitesimal sun. X-rays enable us to some extent to see into the atom and may at last reveal to us what makes for magnetism.

This is research in pure science, and nothing else. Only thus can real progress be made.

Studies of this kind are constantly resulting in minor improvements. But some day a discovery may be made which will enable a metallurgist to work out the formula for a magnetic alloy which has not yet been cast, but which will surely have the properties required. Such a result would be an achievement with tremendous possibilities. It would improve all electric generators, motors, and magnetic devices.

In the meantime the continual improvement in electrical machinery proceeds, in lesser steps. These summed up, constitute the phenomenal progress experienced in the electrical art during the past twenty-five years.

MAUVE-LUTHERAN TEAMS DRAW BLANKS

Game Resolves Into Even Punting Duel; Kenyon Without Offense

With a powerful team that was devoted to the avowed task of breaking Kenyon's clean record slate in the game at Springfield on November 5th, Wittenberg was humbled in the carrying out of its purpose but succeeded in holding Kenyon scoreless. If there were any who still doubted the real brand of defensive football that Kenyon is showing this year, they were fully convinced by this exhibition in which the enemy obtained only once a foothold in territory that was at all dangerous to Kenyon. Besides this achievement the team gratified Gambier fans in disclosing an offensive that surpassed any it has used this season and, in the second half, threatened to score on several occasions.

Warming up to the game in the first half, Kenyon used a series of line-bucks and one advanced near enough to attempt a place kick which unfortunately went wide. But Stock's punts were the usual and sufficient ground gainers for the Gambier team. Wittenberg also depended largely upon punts, but toward the end of the half took the offensive and, advancing to Kenyon's 25 yard line, tried a long forward pass, their other plays having availed nothing for three downs. The pass was incomplete and Kenyon carried the ball back to mid-field as the half ended. Wittenberg was never again on a prolonged offensive nor did they seriously threaten the Kenyon goal again.

The second half was, for a while, a punting duel like the first but before the fourth quarter began the long-coveted Episcopalian offensive was a reality, and the Lutherans were driven by a series of straight-football plays down the field. Splendid cooperation between the backfield and the line resulted in consistent gains through gaps in the Wittenberg line which the Kenyon line regularly opened for Stock and the other backfield men. And then that department of the game, which has been their stronghold all season, slipped up and the boys fumbled. These undoubtedly prevented their scoring but in spite of it their superiority on the field was only too evident. Once they rushed the ball to the Wittenberg 15 yard line but suffering a 15 yard penalty were forced to try a place kick again only to have it blocked this time. And so the game ended with the Mauve carrying the ball down the middle of the field and the result a scoreless tie. Stock's game was phenomenal as usual, and the team worked like a smooth running machine, playing, with the possible exception of the Wooster game, their best game of the season.

The season of 1921, being well under way, marks a turning point in Kenyon football history. Since 1908, and possibly '14, our gridiron men have not enjoyed a more successful year. Little Kenyon, as we have often been referred to in newspaper writeups, can surely boast of her victory over Coach Bole's outfit, which, brought to an end Wooster's enviable record of five years to the day, of consecutive football victories. Although we have but one victory and four ties to our credit we are still in the limelight and prospects are good for our completing the remainder of our season with a clean slate and thus maintaining our present standing in the Ohio conference.

Coach Smith deserves considerable praise for the results he has achieved and to the substitutes as well as the Varsity regulars is due the most sincere congratulations for their efforts.

The student body has also shown wonderful spirit in its support of the team, and, especially, in its attendance at the out of town games.
